

IEPM Welcomes DeLuca-Hoffman Associates, Inc.

South Portland civil and environmental engineering firm becomes member of association

(Augusta) – June 9, 2009

The Independent Energy Producers of Maine welcomed today DeLuca-Hoffman Associates, Inc. as a member of the Augusta, Maine based trade association.

According to www.delucahoffman.com, “We are a traditional civil engineering firm located in South Portland, Maine providing broad based civil and environmental engineering services throughout Maine and northern New England since 1986. Our 31 person staff includes seasoned professional engineers, a registered landscape architect, CADD technicians, construction monitors and administrative support personnel.”

DeLuca-Hoffman Associates, Inc. is currently actively involved with renewable energy projects in the State of Maine where they are applying their civil engineering and permitting background.

“IEPM is thrilled to add DeLuca-Hoffman to our growing membership, and look forward to their knowledge and experience helping to expand the renewable power industry in Maine,” said IEPM Executive Director Jeremy Payne.
